Water saving

1

Close the tap while you brush your teeth, you shave or wash your hair.

Avoid unnecessarily consume of water is the main source of savings. The tap of your bathroom has a capacity of over 10 liters per minute, if you leave it open while you brush your teeth, more than 30 liters of drinking water flee into the drain.

2

A dripping tap irritate

Above all it waste thousands of liters of water. At the rate of 90 drops per minute will waste 4,000 liters of water in a year. Check to see if the valves have a loss is simple: put a small container under the tap, after a few hours you can detect even a minimal loss.

3

Install an energy-saving aerator can save you up to 50%

The modern aerators are simple devices that decrease the output of water from the faucet without decreasing the washing yeld or comfort. A little attention ... that' is cheap but you will save a lot.

4

Use the shower. You can save up to 75%

Take a bath is relaxing but it requires more than 150 liters of water. Be caressed by the water that falls out of the shower, remembering to turn off the water while you lather, is rather invigorating and revitalizing, but also requires less water: on average between 40 and 50 liters less.

5

To wash the vegetables fill a container, lava and uses only tap water for rinsing.

Remember that a good wash of the vegetables is not done leaving them under running water, but filling a bowl, leaving the vegetables to soak so the solid residue may soften, and vigorously rubbing each vegetable with your fingers. You'll see the savings and outcome.

6

Check your meter twith closed aps. A leak in the pipes can cost a lot.

In the evening checks that all the taps at home are tight and take a water meter reading. When you wake up in the morning, check again how it marks your counter. Also a small difference means that there is a minimum loss (from the toilet, the taps or, more likely, from the pipes).
